Vote Near In Senate On Monetary Power

Gain Of Eight Votes Required For Approval

By D. Harold Oliver
WASHINGTON, July 5.—(P)—Senate Republicans attacked the legality of the administration's monetary bill today after President Roosevelt discussed with Democratic leaders strategy for recovering his devaluation powers and winning support for neutrality legislation.

Picking up the monetary fight where they left off Saturday morning, Republican speakers told the senate that even if the bill was approved it would not legally restore to the executive authority to devalue the dollar or power to operate the $2,000,000,000 stabilization fund.

The monetary powers, contended Senator Austin of Vermont, acting Republican leader, "are entirely dead." It would be "contrary to law," he said, to approve legislation designed to continue them before they had expired. The devaluation and stabilization fund powers died last week after Republican and anti-administration Democrats had filibustered the extension bill beyond midnight, Friday. The administration, meanwhile, came forward with the contention that later enactment of the legislation would have the effect of restoring the powers despite the lapse.

WASHINGTON, July 5.—(P)—Heading into the last phase of its 1939 session, congress returned from a four day recess today for a decisive senate vote on extending presidential control over the monetary system.

Western silver senators appeared to hold the balance of power in the final test, set for 5 p. m. Eastern Standard Time.

With President Roosevelt coming back from Hyde Park to take command in the battle, administration forces would express only a hope — so close was the line-up forecast — that the dollar devaluation and stabilization fund powers which lapsed June 30 would be renewed for two years.

The treasury promised a statement before the final roll call, designed to clarify the monetary situation, and the president's backers thought this might win them some votes.

The second big issue before congress — revision of the neutrality act — came before the senate foreign relations committee this morning. If its members agree on a program soon, the general forecast is that senate debate will extend the session into late August or September.

The third big piece of unfinished business — approval of the president's $3,860,000,000 lending program — still is in the preliminary stage. It received unexpected approval last night from Senator Adams (D-Colo.), a leader of the senate economy bloc, who said he favored proposals for construction of self-liquidating projects.

Democratic leaders had to gain at least eight votes through previously absent senators or switches to put over the monetary bill in

To Cut 200,000 Off WPA Rolls

WASHINGTON, July 5.—(P)—Colonel F. C. Harrington, Work Projects Commissioner, ordered the July WPA payroll cut today from 2,600,000 to 2,400,000 persons, to keep within limits set by congressional relief appropriations.

Harrington said the reduction was the first move to trim rolls to a monthly average of 2,047,000 by next June 30. The 1939 fiscal year average was 2,900,000.

Five Thousand Off In State
JEFFERSON CITY, July 5.—(P)—The Missouri WPA rolls for July will be cut by 5,000 as a result of the national reduction announced in Washington today by Col. F. C. Harrington, Works Project commissioner.

Missouri's July quota is 80,000, compared with the 85,000 employed by WPA in this state in June, officials at the state WPA headquarters here announced.

Holiday Toll In The Nation Is Above 600

Traffic Claims 70 Times Many As Fireworks.

By The Associated Press
The motor car killed 70 times as many persons as did fireworks as America observed the 163rd anniversary of its independence with a four-day celebration marked by more than 600 violent deaths.

A survey today listed only four lives lost by exploding fireworks to 277 sudden deaths in automobile accidents throughout the 48 states.

The total toll was at least 612 compared with 517 reported for the three-day celebration last year.

Thronging of beaches by merry-making millions accounted for the second highest number of fatalities—183 drownings. Trains killed 29 persons. There were 36 fatal shooting, eight plane deaths and 79 in miscellaneous accidents.

Two fireworks deaths were caused by the premature explosion of home-made bombs or firecrackers. Hildred Sowders, 14, of Marlin, Tex., died after a piece of tin, blown from a can placed over a firecracker, severed his jugular vein.

Ironically, Edward Fisher, 21, Chicago, who was studying to be a safety engineer, was killed when his auto skidded off a road in Michigan. His father, Dr. H. E. Fisher, is secretary of the national safety council.

In the largest group tragedy six West Virginians, including three children, were killed when their light sedan and a bus collided near Washington, Pa.

At Carman, Okla., a 28-year-old pilot and two high school students were killed when their plane dived from 1,000 feet after a wing covering ripped loose. Three persons died when a motor car tumbled 100 feet into a canyon near Alamogordo, N. M.

Lightning Kills Several
Lightning took several lives. It killed two bathers—man and wife—at Bay City, Mich., but spared their baby, who was in the father's arms.

Although the total of the four fireworks deaths was one more than the number a year ago, communities which banned explosives in a "safe-and-sane" observance reported fewer injuries. In St. Louis, for example, 36 were treated, compared to an average of 453 for the last decade.

Police in New York City said 915 were injured there, against 846 last year and 1,180 in 1937. Texas led the death list with 41, followed by California with

Give Surplus To Melita Nursery

The canning season is in its height and many persons living in the country, or those who have gardens in the city, have a surplus of fruits and vegetables.

The Melita Day Nursery superintendent would be very happy to receive donations of any such fruit or vegetables, for canning purposes. A little left over, or not used by one person means little to them, but if a number of persons would take this small amount of surplus to the nursery it would mean so much to the institution.

Mrs. Buell, the superintendent, would can it for the children, and it would not only mean nourishing food for the little ones but would enable the board to operate at even less expense than at the present.

The worthiness of this institution need not be mentioned to Sedalia people. Started many years ago, it is a nursery where children whose mothers are employed are taken care of. The little ones are taken there early in the morning before the mother goes to work. Here the superintendent and her assistants, usually one or two young girls, give the children breakfast and get them ready for school. They have their lunch and an early supper, and are called for by the parent on her return home from work.

Remember the children if you have a garden and an oversupply.

Fire Is Caused By Firecrackers

Fire crackers were the cause of one fire in Sedalia Tuesday about 6 o'clock in the evening. The damage was very slight. A second fire at 6:04 o'clock in the evening was caused by a stuck motor on a refrigerator.

The fire started by a fire cracker was at the home of Mrs. Hattie Rhodes, 515 North Prospect avenue.

The second alarm was received while the companies were at the Rhodes fire, it being to the residence of Clifford Green, 431 North Osage avenue. Slight damage resulted from the stuck motor.

Void Removal Of Caulfield

High Court Holds Judge Exceeded His Jurisdiction

JEFFERSON CITY, July 5.—(P)—The state supreme court ruled today that Circuit Judge Eugene V. Sartorius "acted in excess of his jurisdiction" last year when he ordered former Governor Henry S. Caulfield removed as co-trustee of the First National Company of St. Louis.

In a unanimous opinion written by Judge Albert M. Clark, the court made permanent its previous writ prohibiting Judge Sartorius from enforcing the order by which he attempted to appoint Leo G. Desobry as Caulfield's successor.

Caulfield was named co-trustee in 1933 with the First National Bank of $9,725,616 of securities held by that bank to secure First National Company participation certificates on which the investment firm defaulted.

His removal was sought by three certificate holders who charged he had taken no action to compel an accounting by the bank on charges it had "grossly mismanaged" the fund, and that acceptance of $1,000 pay from the bank in addition to his stipulated $500 monthly compensation had "placed him under obligation to the bank and impaired his independence."

The court in its opinion, however, declared that Caulfield should not be removed "except for a clear necessity for interference to save the trust property. No such necessity has been shown and the respondent (Judge Sartorius) in his order of removal,

Bill Signed For More Troopers

JEFFERSON CITY, July 5.—(P)—Gov. Lloyd C. Stark today signed into law an act authorizing the appointment of 50 more troopers to the state highway patrol, increasing the force to 165.

A $200,000 appropriation increase to finance the additional men was passed the last day of the recent legislature. The bill provides that salaries of the troopers shall be fixed by the highway patrol superintendent, not to exceed $1,800 a year.

The governor, on his first day in the executive offices since the legislature adjourned, gave no indication of when he would sign the Kansas City police bill, putting that city's police department under the supervision of a state board. Most capital sources expect his signature on the bill before he leaves for San Francisco Sunday.

Stark also signed the new dairy law passed by the last legislature and a bill setting up official standards for grading and classifying apples. It provides that all apples marketed in the state shall be marked to show variety, minimum size and grade.

Urge More Aid In Poor States

Proposal Made For Amending Of Security Act

WASHINGTON, July 5.—(P)—Strong sentiment developed today in the senate finance committee for amending the social security law to provide a larger federal grant for old-age assistance payments in poor states than in the wealthier ones.

Although the committee will not take up the matter formally until tomorrow, several influential members said they favored a formula along the lines proposed by Senator Byrnes (D-SC).

Public payments to the needy aged now range from an average of $6.05 a month in Arkansas to $32.36 a month in California, and Byrnes has suggested the federal share be geared to per capita income in the states to reduce this variation.

At present, the federal government matches state funds for old age assistance on a dollar-for-dollar basis. The limit on such federal contributions is $15 a month per recipient. The house voted recently to increase this to $20, but decided to keep the grants on a dollar-for-dollar matching basis.

Byrnes contends it is useless for the federal government to tell poor states it will put up one-half of $40-a-month payments.

"You might just as well offer to pay one-half of $100 a month," he says. "Many of the states simply have no means of raising revenue to make such payments."

His proposal requires that old age assistance payments shall not average less than $15 a month in any state. States would have to contribute at least $5 a month, or the federal government would cut

Accidents Few In Quiet Fourth For Sedalia

John Ryan Injured At Warsaw As Horse Threw Him

The Fourth of July was an exceptionally quiet day in Sedalia, with reports of only minor accidents from fireworks, and less noise from loud explosives than in many years.

The most serious holiday accident that occurred to a Sedalian was a bad arm injury to John Ryan, 1407, West Tenth street, well-known automobile salesman. Mr. Ryan had spent the day in Sedalia, and after 6 o'clock taking evening with Mrs. Ryan and their daughter, Sandra, drove to Warsaw to visit his brother Paul. The Ryans formerly lived in Warsaw. While there Mr. Ryan went horseback riding, the horse ran away and threw him.

He was brought to the Bothwell hospital Tuesday night, where an examination showed the right elbow either broken or dislocated, and his flesh cut. A specialist from Kansas City, Dr. C. B. Francisco, was called to consult with the local attending physician this morning.

The examination this morning showed the arm was not broken, but dislocated, and while it is a serious injury, it is not as serious as it was first believed.

Burns From Sparkler
The only other emergency patient at the Bothwell during the day was Mrs. Kenneth Keefe, of Warsaw, who suffered slight burns from a sparkler. She remained in the hospital only a few minutes.

Sedalia's quiet Fourth was probably due to its location so near the lake. Hundreds of persons left the city for the rural sections, most of them finding a pleasant location on the lake front where they could swim if they cared to, fish, or just lounge on the bank. Many left Sedalia Saturday night and did not return until Tuesday night.

A number of physicians were called upon to treat minor burns from firecrackers, but in no instance were any serious enough for the patient to be taken to the hospital.

Jack Snell Injured
Jack Snell, 241A South Quincy avenue injured his left hand Monday afternoon when a firecracker exploded before he could get rid of it. The flesh on three fingers of his hand was torn by the explosion. He will be off from work about a week as a result of the injury.

Burned by Rocket
Norman Stevens, Sixth street and Grand avenue, received burns of his right hand and a severe injury to the right ear Tuesday evening when a new type skyrocket exploded when he lit it.

It was said Mr. Stevens had been shooting some fireworks and lighted the rocket. It went up, but not far enough and started zooming back towards Mr. Stevens. He threw his right hand up beside his face as the rocket struck the hand and exploded.

Mr. Stevens left this afternoon for Kansas City to consult an ear specialist.

E. Mont Reily Is Summoned

KANSAS CITY, July 5.—(P)—E. Mont Reily, former Republican governor of Puerto Rico, and Michael D. Waters, discharged commissioner of street cleaning, were summoned as witnesses today by a county grand jury investigating alleged payroll padding on the public works department.

The sheriff's office was given forthwith subpoenas to serve on the two men. Testimony at a city court of inquiry disclosed that pay checks issued to names on the street cleaning employees list had gone into the hands of Reily, a friend of Boss Tom Pendergast, who conducted a small loan business across the street from the court house.

Reily and Waters declined to testify before the court of inquiry. Waters was discharged as a result of that refusal. A clerk in his department testified she had been ordered to place names on the payroll by Waters.

Reily asserted after public disclosure that he had received paychecks of street employees that the money was given him to re-pay loans.

Beginning his payroll pad investigation, the grand jury called Donald Murphy, assistant prosecutor, who took records of the pay roll irregularities into the jury room. Murphy and Russel T. Boyle, another assistant prosecutor, attended a recent private hearing on the pads and Murphy obtained the warrants and payrolls of the street cleaning department involved in the investigation.

The jury plans two other investigations this week. It will study county pay rolls and resume its inquiry into secondary boycotts by labor organizations.

President For Deletion Of Arms Embargo

Asks Neutrality Bill That Would Promote Peace

WASHINGTON, July 5.—(P)—President Roosevelt returned to Washington by special train from his Hyde Park home today, bent on getting from congress a neutrality bill—minus restrictions on sales of arms—as a means of promoting peace.

He invited Secretary Hull to the white house to discuss neutrality and international affairs.

An uncompromising presidential attitude on two of the touchiest issues before congress—neutrality and monetary legislation—was fairly well defined, however, at a press conference which followed a Fourth of July picnic on the Roosevelt estate.

Mr. Roosevelt said he wanted congress to pass a neutrality bill at this session as a means of preventing war. And, he added, he still was backing Hull's recommendation for deletion of an arms embargo provision from the neutrality law.

Supporters of Hull's proposal have contended the knowledge that America would not refuse to sell arms to Great Britain and France would restrain totalitarian states.

The president told reporters that reports to the state department bore out news dispatches from European capitals that Fascist and Nazi nations had hailed the action of the house in approving a neutrality bill with a modified arms embargo clause.

Aim to Prevent War
The administration's first policy, the chief executive said, is to prevent war. He intimated that he thought house acceptance of a partial arms embargo might bring war nearer, make it more difficult for the United States to keep out, and that it had had an undesirable effect on current conditions in Europe.

Mr. Roosevelt's insistence that Congress restore the administration's monetary powers was disclosed in a roundabout manner.

Asked at the press conference whether he would press for new monetary legislation, the president inquired what was the matter with that which was pending. He suggested the question was a bit previous.

Ground to death by the weight of a senate filibuster, Mr. Roosevelt's dollar devaluation power expired at midnight Friday, along with the treasury's $2,000,000,000 stabilization fund.

A senate vote of approval for a compromise monetary bill this afternoon, Attorney General Murphy has said, would revive the presidential powers. Mr. Roosevelt was banking on that.

Would Sacrifice To Keep Peace

CAPE GIRARDEAU, Mo., July 5.—(P)—American business must sacrifice millions as the price for peace. "But it will save us billions in the long run, United States Senator Bennett Champ Clark declared at an American Legion picnic here last night.

"It will save us from footing the bills for other nations whose aims are not our aims and whose democracy is not our democracy," the Missouri senator said.

"It will save us from sacrificing the flower of our youth in quarrels in which we have no interest." Senator Clark, who is carrying on a vigorous fight for re-enactment of the present neutrality law, is co-sponsor of a bill which would require the president to apply it to "undeclared" wars, as well as declared wars. In the event the president failed to act, congress could do so by resolution.

"If the United States actually desires to keep out of war, this seems to be the way," Clark asserted. He said the issue, "bluntly," is: "Shall the United States choose sides by agreeing in advance to act as the arsenal and purveyor of arms to one set of prospective belligerents as against another, or shall we let the world know that we propose to stay out of foreign entanglements?"

"I believe the United States can stay out of the next war if it wants to and . . . is willing to pay the price for peace."

MOREHEAD, Ky., July 5.—(P)—Forty-six persons today were reported drowned in floods that followed quickly a night cloudburst and swept creeks and rivers out of their banks in the mountains of eastern Kentucky.

Thirty-eight of the dead were listed here by Postmaster W. E. Crutcher.

The state board of health at Louisville said it had been informed at least eight were drowned when a wall of water rushed down the gorge of the Kentucky river at Jackson in Breathitt county. Bridges, homes, stores and school buildings were swept away, the department said.

Mrs. N. L. Wells, chairman of the Rowan county Red Cross, said the loss of life may run to 100. She also estimated there would be a thousand refugees and many requiring medical attention.

Peace When There Is No Peace

The startling part of Viscount Halifax's speech to the Royal Institute of International Affairs was, of course, the one that made the headlines. It was the defiant passage about how the British were ready to fight, on the sea, in the air, and on land. And that, of course, is the part which belonged in the headlines. The unfortunate part of it is that probably most people read no farther. If Halifax, the British foreign secretary, had done nothing more than to shout a loud defiance at Germany, his speech would have been no more than another of those "You dastent!" and "I dast too!" which have passed for diplomacy in Europe's recent years.

But he did go farther. Down in the part of the speech which most people probably did not read, Halifax indicated the way out for Europe and the world. Peoples who feel that they need "lebensraum," or living room, should seek it by breaking down barriers of isolation and ill-feeling, rather than by physical conquest. Then and then only then, can the whole world profit by the immense benefits which science has brought within reach.

"But no such society of nations can be built upon force," he reminded his hearers, "in a world which lives in fear of violence and has to spend its substance in preparing to resist it."

"And there is no more urgent need, if we are ever to find a workable system of international organization, than to invent a peaceful means whereby such changes can be handled . . . Today, when European nations, forgetful of their common civilization, are arming to the teeth, it is more important than ever that we should remind ourselves of the essential unity of European civilization."

Halifax then based British foreign policy on two stones: first, the determination to resist force, and second "recognition of the world's desire to get on with the constructive work of building peace."

The trouble is, that when the first line is taken the second is forgotten. In the very resistance to violence with violence, the resister becomes no less violent than the aggressor, with the result that the world's dream and desire for peace flies out the window and another Versailles after the bloodletting becomes inevitable. For it is very hard to imagine a peace closing another European war which would be better than the one made at Versailles, or one which would really solve any of the world's problems.

It is not the destructiveness and horror of another war that dissolves the imagination. It is its utter futility.

Grain For Dust

The success of the shelter-belt plan of tree-planting in the "dust bowl" areas is marked enough after five years to justify Secretary Wallace in saying that they may help to make the Great Plains region a breadbasket for the nation rather than an ever-threatening desert.

At four cents apiece, the government has helped plant 127,000,000 trees along 11,000 miles of windbreak. Some of the trees, which vociferous and sarcastic critics insisted wouldn't grow, are now 30 and 35 feet high. An on more than 20,000 farms, new life has come to the crops, and new hope to the farmers.

Without faith, there can be no progress; without the willingness to take a risk there can be no solid gain. The cedars, pines, locusts, Chinese elms, and willows waving in the prairie breeze are a row of banners to a risk justified and a faith vindicated.

A New One

Everybody is for traffic safety. Everyone agrees that the personal liberty of drivers must be compromised for the sake of the safety of others.

But like all these compromises between the rights of one and the rights of all, there must be some point where reason marks off a dividing line.

That line must be somewhere pretty close to a new German regulation promulgated by Gen. Kurt Daluge, chief of German police, who has ruled that no one may smoke while driving.

Apparently Germany has not yet bred the omnipotent sort of American auto driver who can drive, smoke, listen to the radio, neck a pretty girl, and read the shaving-cream advertisements, all at the same time. This is a peculiarly American product, not yet developed, it would seem, in Hitlerland.

Looking Backward

Rain falling at intervals during the day seriously interfered with the celebration of Independence Day in Sedalia yesterday, but Messrs. Courtney, Cannon, Dalby, Morris, Van Riper and Andrews adjusted the arrangements. Later in the afternoon a musical program was carried out at Liberty park, but all track events had to be postponed until next Tuesday. The weather cleared at night and the universal verdict was that the Sedalia Republican Flambeau club never gave a prettier exhibition. Captains of the teams for the gun shoot at the park were E. H. Smith and G. C. McClure, the former team winning by a score of 63 to 57.

By Drew Pearson and Robert S. Allen

WASHINGTON — In private conversations, Secretary Hull expresses the opinion that the European crisis is likely to reach a climax in late July. He doesn't hazard this as anything definite, because things are happening so fast in Europe that same prediction is out of the question.

However, Germany is following almost exactly the same pattern she followed last year in Czechoslovakia, a campaign of intimidation, worry and wearing down the enemy.

All the information collected by the state department is that Hitler expects to get what he wants without war. He figures the French and British will not give any real support to Poland in the final showdown; also that any clash with Poland will be short and decisive.

Hitler is the cleverest strategist in Europe, and he may be right. On the other hand, he may get fooled this time. The British have built up their airplane production to a point where it nearly equals the German. French morale is at a high pitch. The French are caloused to crises and almost shrug their shoulders over war.

In other words, both sides have reached a showdown psychology. This is what makes the coming weeks the most dangerous in a quarter of a century.

Anti-Third Term
The GOP-silverite log-rolling deal on the monetary bill was discussed as much in the Senate cloakrooms as on the floor outside.

Vice President Jack Garner and several senators were gossiping about the GOP deal when one of them observed, "It certainly was a strange line-up. In 1896 the Democratic platform contained the famous 16-to-1 silver plank and one of the members of the resolutions committee that wrote the platform was Carter Glass. Now he is one of the adamant advocates of 'hard money' and a bitter foe of giving the president power to devalue the dollar."

"That wasn't the only interesting plank in that 1896 platform," broke in Garner. "There was another that has current application."

"What was that?"
"An anti-third term plank!"
Capital Chaff
Genial Harry Woodring has an almost exact double—Bill MacCracken, Assistant Secretary of Commerce in the Coolidge days . . . One of the hardest-working of the Civil Aeronautics Commissioners is Grant Mason, a pioneer in building up Pan American Airways. He seldom leaves his desk before 9 or 10 in the evening . . . Ex-Secretary of State Stimson, Republican, has leased his palatial mansion, "Woodley," to Assistant Secretary of State Berle, Democrat. Purchased by Stimson at a cost of $800,000, he has willed it to Phillips (Andover) Academy, where he studied.

Pork and Scuttle
During the confusion and turmoil of last week's congressional monkeyshines there slipped through unnoticed two appropriation items that constitute an interesting commentary on the statesmanship of Virginia's Representative Clifton Woodrum, crooning czar of the House Appropriations Committee.

One was a clear case of pork and the other a clear case of scuttle. The pork-grabbing job was a $340,000 grant for another Antarctic expedition by Woodrum's friend, Admiral Richard E. Byrd, brother of Senator Harry Byrd.

The senate's No. 1 shouter for economy. Twice the house rejected the item, but Woodrum, chief axer of relief appropriations and unrelenting foe of WPA's theatre projects, quietly sneaked the Byrd fund into a deficiency supply bill and in the noisy chaos of congress, got it approved as part of this measure.

It is doubtful if more than a handful of congressmen are aware that this appropriation, which they twice vetoed, is now law. NOTE—The Byrd Antarctic Expedition is supposed to be justified by the need of establishing U. S. claims on the South Pole. However, the last time Admiral Byrd went down there, the State Department waited ten years to get Byrd's report of Marie Byrd

Land, which he claimed to have discovered. All they ever got was his radio report of having flown over the land, which State Department geographers could not use as the basis for any claim which would stand up under international law. Byrd never took the trouble to submit a scientific report giving latitude and longitude.

Monopoly Scuttled
The undercover scuttling job was a $390,000 appropriation for the monopoly investigating committee. To continue its work of probing the secret operations of insurance companies and other business giants, the committee asked for an additional $480,000. Woodrum slashed this in his committee to $300,000. The senate restored the sum to its original figure.

Whereupon Woodrum, in the secrecy of a conference committee, split the difference to $390,000—thus severely limiting the scope on the monopoly committee's activities.

NOTE — Woodrum vigorously denies that insurance company pressure had anything to do with his knifing of the monopoly committee fund, but several of his committee colleagues say they were privately approached by insurance lobbyists to cut the committee's appropriation.

Merry-Go-Round
At least one Latin American dignitary whom the Roosevelt Administration will not welcome is Dictator Trujillo of the Dominican Republic, who arrives here shortly. Despite the ballyhooing of a press agent and the hiring of Ambassador Joe Davies as his legal agent, Trujillo's coming arouses no enthusiasm from the State Department . . . Norman Littell, forthright Assistant Attorney General, has devised a new system for dealing with lands which the Government buys from private owners. In the past, the owners have had to go through a lot of legal red-tape and expense to get their money. Littell says this is unfair and is having special government attorneys help the public . . . Admiral Byrd and Representative Woodrum come from neighboring districts of Virginia.

TVA Sleight of Hand
Representative Andrew (Noisy) May of the Military Affairs committee is No. 1 foe of TVA in the house. One of his pet arguments against the great public power project is that it cuts corners in abiding by the strict letter of the law.

But the chattering Kentuckian is perfectly willing to do exactly that himself to gain his own ends. In the House-Senate conference on the bill giving TVA $100,000,000 bonding power for hydroelectric developments, May proposed a $45,000,000 "compromise." The measure as passed by the Senate carried the $100,000,000 figure, while the House fixed a limit of $61,500,000.

"You have been in Congress a long time," rebuked Senator George Norris, father of TVA. "Don't you know that we can't do a thing like that? It seems to me that you ought to know by now, Mr. May, that conference committees cannot go below or above the figures voted by their respective chambers. If we brought in such a 'compromise' as you suggest, it would be immediately thrown out on a point of order."

"Oh, I know the rule all right," replied May, "but maybe no one would notice it and it would slip by. No harm trying."

SERIAL STORY

PAR IS LOVE

BY EDWIN RUTT
COPYRIGHT, 1939, NEA SERVICE, INC.

Yesterday, Royallon meets the girl of his dreams, finds she has TWO fiancés who are going to play off a golf match to determine who wins her. He asks if it is a private twosome!

CHAPTER II

SHE gave him a look that made him think of violets with dew on them. "Oh, very private. Just Ronald and Wilfrid."

The face of Royallon Augustus Herring clouded a little.

"What does your father say," he asked, "to your settling your life by a golf match between two dubs?"

"Oh, father. He doesn't know anything about the match. He says a lot of things, though."

"He does, eh? What, for instance?"

"Well, he says he wishes I'd hurry up and marry one of those cussed boys so the other would get the devil out of the house. He says two wrongs never make a right."

Royallon Augustus nodded. "Your dad knows his stuff. I begin to gather that he's not too hot about Ronald and Wilfrid."

"No. One of them got his goat, but he doesn't know which so he blames them both."

"Got his goat? How do you mean?"

"Well, the other day Ron put a skeleton in Wilfrid's room. It was sort of a dumb thing to do. And the worst of it is, he put one of father's top hats on the skeleton."

"What did he do that for? Just for fun and stuff?"

"Oh, he told me he thought it might shake Wilfrid's nerve. Rattle him for the match, you know."

"H'm! It should have. Whose skeleton was it? Not the family's?"

"No. Er—that is, it belonged to father."

"I see. Your father has skeletons. What's he do, go in for collecting them?"

"That's it. Father is an evolutionist and a paleontologist. Just as a hobby, you know. He used to be a banker. But this was one of his favorite skeletons."

FOR a moment they sat silent.

"Well," said Royallon, reluctantly, "I really ought to be going. But I've sort of gotten interested in this. There's a couple more things I'd like to know, if it wouldn't be presuming."

"Shoot," said the girl, drawing circles in the dust with the toe of her slipper.

"Well, why did you tell me, a perfect stranger, all this?"

She faced him. "If you want to know, it's because I haven't a single solitary soul in that house to talk to."

"No? Gee, that's tough luck."

"But it's true. You see, I can't talk to mother about Ronald and Wilfrid. She's a great friend of their mother. And father's against me because I'm going to marry either Ron or Wilfrid. My brother Billy is just a kid. And I couldn't confide in the maids or Baskerville."

"Who's Baskerville?"

"He's the chauffeur."

"No," said Royallon Augustus hastily, remembering reading about a chauffeur who ran away with an heiress, "don't talk to Baskerville. I think you'd quite right to tell me."

"And," she continued, "we're way out here in the country miles from any of my friends. So I've got to let off steam where and when I can."

"I've got a suggestion to make," said Royallon, with a Machiavellian gleam in his eye. "Why don't you call off this match? That is, unless you're wild about either Ronald or Wilfrid, or both."

She looked away. "I couldn't do that. I've committed myself

now. But as for Ron and Wilfrid—well, they're very sweet of course . . .
"But you're not exactly steamed up over them, eh?"

HER eyes raked his. "I won't answer that. But I'll tell you this much: Mother thinks it would be very suitable. She pegged away at me until I had to ask the twigs here for the summer in order to get some peace."

"Good Lord! For all summer?"

"Yes, I guess she believes in propinquity. Well, it works like a charm. I got so sick of turning down Ronald before breakfast, Wilfrid before lunch and both before dinner that I finally gave in. And—oh, you know the rest."

"By the way," said Royallon suddenly, "what's your name?"

"Barbara Ganning. What's yours?"

"Herring. Roy Herring. You know, Miss Ganning, I'm beginning to be sort of sorry that I won't be here to see this match."

"What good would that do?"

"Well, at least I'd know who won. Also I could, well, I mean to say, I could fill in between now and Saturday. Give you someone to talk to while the twins are cutting up golf balls."

She was silent a minute.

"It's a thought," she said at last.

"On the whole, I think I need someone. I'm fed up with the talent in that house."

Royallon Augustus Herring made a lightning decision.

"Then I'm going to stay," he announced. "That is, if you want me to."

"I wish you could," she said. "Well, why can't I? I'm on a vacation. And if it would do you any good, I'd be delighted. I suppose there's a hotel somewhere around."

She shook her head. "Not a decent one for miles."

"That's awkward," he said. "Well, I'm game to try an indecent one."

"You could stay in the house," said Barbara slowly. "I could say you're a boy I met out in Colorado. I visited out there last

"HONEYMOON SKIPPER" FINDS CAMELS GIVE MORE PLEASURE PER PUFF...MORE PUFFS PER PACK!

CLOSE-UP BESIDE MIGHTY NIAGARA. Jolly Captain Robert Graham leans against the rail of his Maid of the Mist to give an inquiring reporter his views on cigarettes: "I've been a Camel smoker for more than 10 years. Lots of times I've compared with other smokers—noticed how much longer my Camels burned. To a steady smoker, that extra smoking mounts up. I figure—on the basis of these recent laboratory reports—that I'm getting the same as 5 EXTRA SMOKES PER PACK. Even without that bonus, Camels still would be my smoke. They're milder, cooler—easy on my throat. They have a rich, mellow taste I've never found in any other cigarette." Try Camels. Enjoy the supreme luxury of Camel's finer, more expensive tobaccos...and the economy of long burning that make Camel "penny for penny your best cigarette buy."

By burning 25% slower than the average of the 15 other of the largest-selling brands tested—slower than any of them—CAMELS give smokers the equivalent of

5 EXTRA SMOKES PER PACK

For years millions of smokers have enjoyed the milder, cooler smoking...and the economy...of long-burning Camels. Now impartial laboratory tests measure this added value in Camels through a comparison of 16 of the largest-selling brands:

1 CAMELS were found to contain MORE TOBACCO BY WEIGHT than the average for the 15 other of the largest-selling brands.

2 CAMELS BURNED SLOWER THAN ANY OTHER BRAND TESTED—25% SLOWER THAN THE AVERAGE TIME OF THE 15 OTHER OF THE LARGEST-SELLING BRANDS! By burning 25% slower, on the average, Camels give smokers the equivalent of 5 EXTRA SMOKES PER PACK!

3 In the same tests, CAMELS HELD THEIR ASH FAR LONGER than the average time for all the other brands. More puffs per pack—more pleasure per puff—Camels are the quality cigarette every smoker can afford.

Biggest Crowd Of Year In Tribute To Lou Gehrig

By Sid Feder
NEW YORK, July 5—(P)—The husky figure climbed slowly up the old wooden stairs back of the Yankees' dugout, shoulders bent, right leg limping and throat torn by sobs.

This was Lou Gehrig leaving the most dramatic moment of his life. Back of him, 61,808 fans, piled on Yankee stadium's tiered sides, cheered till the rafters shook, and out on the field a big-round-faced, flat-nosed fellow stood as tears rolled down his cheeks.

He was Babe Ruth who had just voiced for everyone who knows three strikes are out their feeling about Lou.

He had gone over, put one of those big arms around Gehrig's shoulders and patted Lou once or twice, trying to get him to stifle the emotion which had broken him up right out there on the ball field.

"C'mon kid," the Babe whispered through his tears, "C'mon, kid, buck up now. We're all with you."

That was what everyone had been trying to say to Gehrig for an hour during all that ceremony which marked "Lou Gehrig Appreciation day" at the stadium yesterday. The fans had been trying to; so had his teammates — those of the current Yanks and those of the 27 world champions — and so had the baseball writers. But there was no one who could — or should — have said it like the Babe.

They had gathered, these old-timers, from the four corners of the country to honor old Lou, the Iron Horse, who has been put back in the roundhouse by a little germ. "Beanballs" couldn't do it, nor broken bones, nor illness through the 14 years during which he chalked up sports' most amazing endurance record of 2,130 straight games in action. But this little "bug," a form of infantile paralysis, may have put a "period" on the Hoss' playing career for keeps.

Biggest Crowd of Year
So the club, thanks to President Ed Barrow, put on the show for Lou yesterday before the biggest crowd of the year. And old timers unanimously agreed there has never been such a heartfelt scene on the diamond.

For Lou, a sentimental sort of fellow anyway, it was too much. Even before the speechmaking and presentations of gifts on the field, he was overcome in the clubhouse. "There hasn't been a day since I came up that I wasn't anxious to get in uniform and out on the field," he said. "But today I wish I was anywhere but in this stadium."

Afterward, on the field, he stood surrounded by gifts from the club, his teammates, the baseball writers, the Old Timers' Association of Denver, the stadium employees and the New York Giants, and said a few words into a loud-speaker system. Several times his voice broke and a sob escaped as he announced, "Today I consider myself the luckiest man on the face of the earth."

He waved an arm at the old teammates, fellows like Ruth and Tony Lazzeri and Herb Pennock. Earl Combs, Wally Shang, Benny Bengough, Bob Shawkey, Bob Meusel, Mark Koenig, Joe Dugan, George Pipgras and the rest.

"Just look," he went on, "wouldn't you consider it a privilege to associate yourself with such fine looking men as are standing on this ball field. Or with men like Col. Jacob Ruppert (late president of the club) or Miller Huggins (manager who died in the '20s)."

Then he stumbled, his eyes blinded by tears, back to the clubhouse.

Near Quarter Of Million At Ball Games

Leonard Humbles Yanks 3-2; Four Homers By Tabor

By Will White
Associated Press Sports Writer
Emil (Dutch) Leonard, the Washington Senators' "old man with the knuckle ball" was just about the biggest firecracker in baseball's whole Fourth of July package.

And what a stirring triumph his 3-2 conquest of the New York Yankees was! It came in the first game of the doubleheader the champions had dedicated to their pal and one-time first baseman, Lou Gehrig.

With the season's biggest crowd there to honor the "iron horse," with the Yankees determined to make it a gala occasion, old Dutch stood up there and mowed the Yanks down with only six hits in one of the most courageous pitching performances of the year.

And that superlative job must take precedence over some other magnificent baseball doings in a day when 249,541 holiday noise-makers watched their favorites in bargain bills.

Poles Four Homers
Such doings, for instance, as Jim Tabor's four homers for Boston's Red Sox—two of them with the bases loaded to tie the major league mark; or superb elbowing by Danny MacFayden and Milt Shoffner of the Bees in stopping the Giants twice; or Buck Newsom's shutout of the Cleveland Indians—or any one of a dozen other feats.

Dutch won, but the champs won the second game for Lou by 11-1 as Steve Sundra shelled the Senators with a six hit job.

Tabor's home run feat was only part of the show as the second place Red Sox slammed the Athletics all over the lot in their twin engagement, 17-7 and 18-12.

The White Sox made the most of a big inning in each of their games with the St. Louis Browns to win 7-3 and 7-4.

Big Buck Newsom's "Sunday pitch" was good enough to stop the Cleveland Indians in their tracks and the Tigers won 4-0 as Detroit's biggest crowd, 56,272 howled its approval. Rain washed out the second game.

The New York Giants' title drive in the National league went temporarily glimmering when MacFayden and Shoffner handcuffed them twice in Boston, 3-1 and 10-2.

The Cincinnati Reds stayed in first place though they bowed to Mace Brown of the Pirates 4-3 in the second game. It was his first full game. The Reds won the first game 7-4.

There is also considerable joy in Mudville what with the Dodgers winning two in a series marked by more fireworks (verbal and otherwise) than baseballs. They beat the Phillies 6-3 and 8-6.

And Hank Leiber had a day of it, out in Chicago. He belted three homers in the first game by the Cardinals outdid him in run producing and won 6-4. Then the Cubs turned around and won the second 3-2 when Gus Mancuso singled home the winning tally in the 10th.

U S Assured Of Net Victory
WIMBLEDON, Eng., July 5.—(P)—Bobby Riggs of Chicago and Elwood Cooke of Portland, Ore., assured the United States of winning the all-England tennis championship today when Riggs overwhelmed Ferenc Puncce of Yugoslavia 6-2, 6-3, 6-4 and Cooke eliminated Henner Henkel of Germany, 6-3, 4-6, 6-4, 6-4.

WIMBLEDON, Eng., July 5.—(P)—Elwood Cooke, cocky 24-year-old player from Portland, Ore., entered the finals of the all-England tennis championships today with a 6-3, 4-6, 6-4 victory over Henner Henkel, German ace.

Cooke had too much pace and length for the German.

The Portland youngster's opponent in the final will be either Bobby Riggs of Chicago or Ferenc Puncce, Yugoslavian ace.

Byron Nelson: "I'll settle for one quarter of the $50,000 I am supposed to get for winning the national open . . . and even then I'd be getting about $4,000 more than Ralph Guldahl got the first time he won."

'Artists And Models Abroad' at Uptown Theatre

Comedy by Jack Benny, romance by Joan Bennett, assorted antics by the Yacht Club Boys and Mary Boland, four hit songs by Ralph Rainger and Leo Robin and specially designed fashions by world famous sylvists, these are the leading attractions in "Artists And Models Abroad."

Benny plays a happy-go-lucky, wise cracking American vaudeville hoofer who copes with the problem of being stranded in Paris in a series of rollicking adventures. His leading lady, Miss Bennett, cast in a role different from any she has previously played, is the American oil heiress who joins a theatrical troupe for a new thrill and stays to find love. "Artists and Models Abroad" differs from most screen musical comedies in that the accent is chiefly on the story, which uses the glamorous Paris Exposition as its background. Second feature is "Pals of the Saddle" with the Three Mesquiteers."

U S Olympic Team Be Strong

LINCOLN, Neb., July 5.—(P)—The nation's track and field "freshmen" are going to make Uncle Sam's 1940 Olympic team one of the strongest in many years in the opinion of Dan Ferris, secretary-treasurer of the Amateur Athletic Union.

Ferris defined "freshmen" as those youngsters, who competed in the junior championships of the A. A. U.'s 51st meet which closed with yesterday's senior program at the University of Nebraska. And while he explained he wasn't taking anything away from the senior stars, it was, junior performances of Monday which fired his enthusiasm.

"Youngsters like Marsh Farmer, who won the 110 meters junior hurdles title in 14.2 seconds and Al Blozis of New York, who won the shot put and discus titles, indicate that there's to be plenty of 'fresh blood' in the group which will try for Olympic positions next summer," Ferris said.

To match the four new junior meet records, the seniors came through with four new marks yesterday. Fred Wolcott, one of 11 defending senior champions to lose titles, made up for the loss of his 110 meters hurdles crown by winning the 200 meters hurdles in 22.9 clipping four tenths of a second off the old mark.

Greg Rice of Notre Dame took the 5,000 meters run in 14 minutes, 50.9 seconds as against the old mark of 15:14.1, while Phil Fox of San Francisco's Olympic club, winner of the team title, tossed the discus 172 feet, 4 1/2 inches as compared to the old mark of 169 feet, 8 3/4 inches. The New York Athletic club's "A" 400 meters relay team turned in the winning time of 41 seconds' as against the former meet mark of 41.2.

Fighting off Chuck Fenske's famous "stretch kick" Blaine Rideout of the Shore Athletic club, Elberon, N. J., turned in the day's top surprise by winning the 1,500 meters race in 3 minutes 51.5 seconds. Louis Zamperini was third and the veteran Glenn Cunningham fourth.

Veteran Harness Horse Man Believes In Breed's Future

SPRIT OF 67—His are dimming eyes but they have seen the glory of the development of the trotting horse—"the only American breed." Charles W. Gorrell, veteran breeder and trainer, who still has the same keen interest in harness horses he has carried through 67 years around the stables and the tracks, is shown here posed with his Diamond Graton before the American flag he keeps on a wall within the stables of the Missouri State Fairgrounds.

Charles Gorrell Has Spent Life With Trotting Horses

This is the story of a man and of an American institution, as typically American as the Fourth of July celebration today or as the skeptic from Missouri who had to be shown.

The man is 67-year-old Charles W. Gorrell, and the institution is the breeding of trotting and pacing horses—the only standard horse variety developed in this country.

Charlie Gorrell has spent his life with trotting horses, he has bred them, raced them, ridden them and used them on the farm. And looking back he's glad he did it. For he's helped a little to make the trotting horse a better, faster breed than it was when he started.

Veteran Horseman

Mr. Gorrell, who lives at 2103 South Limit avenue, spends most of his time out at the State Fair barns these days exercising and conditioning his horses. He entered a horse at the first state fair here, in 1900, and he plans to enter the races this year, but his main interest now is more in breeding than in racing. For he thinks that, despite this machine age, the future of the harness horse is almost unlimited, mainly because of its adaptability.

When the word "trotter" or "pacer" is mentioned, most people think of a high-stepping, temperamental animal whirling a rubber-tired sulky around a track. But the trotting horse is not bred exclusively for racing, Mr. Gorrell says, and this is why he believes in the breed.

"If you don't want to race a trotting horse," he says, "you can take him out on the farm and put him in front of a plow. He'll be just as good there. Or you can use him for a riding horse." The trotting horse is the equine jack-of-all-trades, according to Mr. Gorrell.

Record Breakers Star

Despite its variety of uses, the trotting horse who breaks track records has always been the one veteran harness horse men remember. He's the pampered prima donna of the family.

And although Mr. Gorrell has bred many trotting horses that never saw a track, the ones he remembers best are two he bred and raced himself.

The first was Mightellion, who 20 years ago held the state mile record. The second was the horse that took that record away from him and set the present mark of 2:6 3/4. His name was Black Diamond and Mr. Gorrell still likes to talk about the way "Diamond" looked and ran. Mightellion, incidentally, was at one time known as the "guideless wonder," because he was trained to trot without sulky or driver behind him.

Two Kinds of Racing

There's a world of difference between harness horse racing and the more widely publicized running horse contests, and Mr. Gorrell emphatically prefers the former. He claims most running horses are backed heavily by gamblers while there is comparatively little betting on pacers and trotters. "Why I've never bet on a horse in my life," he says, "and I've still had a lot more fun than any gamblers."

Harness horse devotees look after their own horses, and are a much better class of men than those who follow the running horses, Mr. Gorrell thinks. And, he also points out, a running horse is only good for racing, can't be used for very much else.

Mr. Gorrell has been present at every state fair since the first one, and before he moved to Sedalia lived on a farm near Marshall where he kept his horses.

This year he'll be driving a 4-year-old filly, Mary Ann Gratton, in the state fair races. Watch for him. He may not win but he'll be having a good time anyway.

"We've decided!"

Thousands of folks in this community tried Grain Belt Beer under our bonded guarantee offer...and only 2 asked for their money back!

Over a month ago we published a full page advertisement in this newspaper in which we asked folks to try Grain Belt Beer under our guarantee of money refunded if not satisfied.

We asked those people who gather refreshment from a glass of good beer to order a case of Grain Belt sent to their homes. We invited people to use as many bottles as they thought necessary to make a fair test. Then, if they did not whole-heartedly agree that Grain Belt is the most satisfying beer they ever tasted, all they had to do was to return the bond which comes in every case of Grain Belt to the Minneapolis Brewing Company and steps would be taken to refund the purchase price.

How few asked for their money back is a double tribute—to our beer and to the honesty of human nature.

Our bonded guarantee is in every case of Grain Belt Beer. Unless you prefer Grain Belt, your trial will cost you nothing.

Smith States He's 'Not Going To Be Goat'

Denies Guilt And States He Was Ill Advised

BATON ROUGE, La., July 5.—(AP)—An assertion by Dr. James Monroe Smith he was "not going to be the goat" indicated today the resigned president of Louisiana State University soon would end his reticence concerning charges he embezzled $100,000 from the institution he headed for nine years.

Unable immediately to raise $50,000 bond, Dr. Smith spent the night in the parish jail. With his wife, who was indicted as an accomplice, the genial educator was returned yesterday under guard from Canada. Mrs. Smith was released last night under $7,500 bond.

After refusing to talk with federal agents or District Attorney Dewey Sanchez, Dr. Smith suddenly agreed near midnight to speak with Sanchez. Jail officials said he then declared: "I am not going to be made the goat in this thing."

Sanchez had, by that time, retired and Sheriff Newman H. De Bretton did not call him. Members of Smith's family had been in earnest conversation with his in earnest conversation with him before he was taken to jail.

Returned by Plane
After an easy-stage journey from Brockville, Ontario, where he surrendered Sunday to authorities, Smith was brought by plane from New York to New Orleans, thence by police car to the jail here.

As he was being led to the police car he said into a microphone thrust at his face:

"I'm glad to be back. I'm sorry I went away. I was ill advised to leave. I will have something to say later."

This morning the New Orleans Times-Picayune, pursuing its campaign for a complete investigation, asked "who advised him?"

As Smith and his wife were escorted through the dense crowd that had waited hours at the New Orleans airport to shout a cheery "hi, Doc," a reporter touched the still dignified Smith on the shoulder so strongly that the educator had to pause.

"Are you guilty?" the reporter asked.

"Absolutely not," Smith responded.

Then under still heavier guard, in automobiles with shrieking sirens, the Smiths were rushed here, brought through a friendly group of faculty members and students who clustered about the jail, and then fingerprinted.

Narrow Escape At Crossing

William "Bill" Rymer, 608 North Prospect avenue, had a narrow escape about 9:55 o'clock this morning, when Missouri Pacific passenger train Number 12 struck his car at the Prospect avenue crossing.

Mr. Rymer said he was headed north towards his home and as he approached the tracks saw the passenger train coming. Feeling he did not have time to go across, he tried to stop the car and jump out, getting only a few feet away when the engine struck the front part of the car.

The car, a 1929 Studebaker sedan was badly smashed. No one accompanied Rymer.

Exonerate Bell At Inquest Held

A coroner's jury exonerated Osborne Mann, Negro, for the murder of his brother Frank "Mann" Bell last Sunday morning. The jury's verdict was, "Frank Bell came to his death from gunshot wounds fired from a gun in the hands of Osborne Bell, who shot in self defense. We the jury recommend Osborne Bell to be exonerated."

The inquest was conducted by Dr. Gordon Stauffacher, coroner, at the Alexander Funeral Home, 400 West Cooper street this morning. The jury which heard the evidence was composed of Carl Abbott, Fred Ferguson, Gus Crews, Dr. W. C. Dansey, Archie Booker, and Clarence Flewellen.

According to evidence given by witnesses, Bell had threatened his brother Osborne's life several times, and the morning of the shooting had threatened him at his home when he returned home in an intoxicated condition. This evidence was given by another brother, Oscar Bell, who was entering their home a few minutes before the shooting.

Several other witnesses were questioned as to Frank Bell's temperment and reputation.

Osborne Bell who gave himself up to Sheriff W. L. Marlin immediately following the killing was released. "No charges will be preferred against Bell unless further investigation warrant such."

I'm taking the recommendation of the coroner's jury in releasing Bell," Prosecuting Attorney Frank Hayes said.

Funeral services for Bell were held at 3 o'clock this afternoon at the funeral home with the Reverend J. Y. Jackson, officiating. Interment was in the Glenwood cemetery.

Two Sedalians failed to obtain their city license stickers and were fined $2 each. They were Marvin Butler and Judd Colbert. For each month the automobile owner failed to obtain his city license sticker and extra dollar fine is added.

Sees Danger In Power Politics

NEW YORK, July 5—Herbert Hoover asserts in a magazine article published today that President Roosevelt has brought the threat of war closer to this country by taking "a seat at the table where (international) power politics is being played."

Writing in the current issue of the American magazine, the former president says "The dangers of our being dragged into war lie in these directions:

"1. Foreign propaganda to inflame our emotions and to mold our minds to war.
"2. Preachments of our own mistaken officials and citizens which in effect, support these propagandas.
"3. Steps taken by our own government which, while denying that they are intended to take us into war, yet entangle us with these very controversies, the end of which may be war."

Jennie Amburgey, about 40, Majory Amburgey, 13, Evra Lee Amburgey, 6, Lula Mae Perry, 27, Selva Lee Perry, 17, Maggie Frances Collins, 12, Evra Lee Goebel, 10, Elmer Sparkman, 9, John Paul Sparkman, 4, Thelma Lee Sparkman, 4, Robert Sparkman, Mrs. Harlan Boyd.

Mrs. Sayers and her three children, her mother and her brother, were drowned as they were attempting to start an automobile to flee from the onrushing water. The car was overturned and washed several hundred feet.

Rural Areas Isolated
Crutcher said the death toll is expected to be high in the rural sections of Rowan county with which it has been impossible to communicate.

Farmers, a village seven miles west of here, was completely cut off and Clearfield, a factory town of approximately 500 persons, on the opposite side of Triplett creek from Morehead, was feared to have suffered heavily. Rescuers were unable to cross the swift current to reach the community.

Water on Railroad street, Morehead's main thoroughfare, varied in depth from four to ten feet at the peak of the flood. Bill McClain, fireman at the State Teachers' college, estimated the water rose 10 to 15 feet in less than 30 minutes.

Ted Sparkman, whose four children are missing, said the force of the rushing torrents swept his house from its foundation.

"I grabbed my wife," Sparkman related, "and we ran to the door. The force of the water swept us into the torrent and we were sucked into the street. A few seconds later our house swept by and we were unable to do anything for our children. We could hear their cries as our house went by."

Sparkman and his wife were rescued from a tree top at 6:30 a. m. by boatmen.

Rescuers said between 50 and 75 persons were taken from tree tops along the banks of the creek.

Reports from all sections of eastern Kentucky indicated the heavy rainfall had been general and that streams throughout the section were flooded.

Paul Morthorst, a delivery truck driver for a Louisville newspaper, who was stranded here by the cloudburst which preceded the flood, estimated "at least 40 or 50 persons" were drowned.

Mayor Warren Clappin wired Arthur Gamble, WPA district director at Paintsville, 70 miles from here, asking "all WPA help available." He said "sanitary conditions worst possible."

Morhorth said railroad and highway bridges east of here were washed out and the railroad tracks had been swept away on both sides of town.

The American Red Cross ordered Mrs. Sheridan Connally, field representative, from Lexington, Ky., into the flooded town to set up relief offices.

Two other Rowan county towns, Farmers and Clearfield, also were virtually isolated as the flood waters of Triplett Creek roared out of the banks shortly after midnight.

Houses Off Foundations
Crutcher estimated that the flood, which struck as residents of this town of 2,500 slept, had washed "at least 100 houses" from their foundations.

At Cincinnati, W. C. Devereaux, United States meteorologist, reported heavy rains throughout northern and eastern Kentucky. The Licking river at Farmers, he said, rose 19.8 feet in the 24 hours ending at 8 a. m. Farmers is seven miles west of here.

Gov. A. B. Chandler at Frankfort, ordered state patrolmen and state highway emergency crews into the stricken county. The governor termed the flood a terrible thing.

Preceded By Fire

The flood was the second disaster to strike Morehead in 24 hours. Yesterday fire threatened to sweep the business district. Alf Caskey, owner of the property damaged, estimated his loss at $75,000.

At 3 a. m. Crutcher said, the flood waters were receding.

Townpeople sought to rescue Mrs. Harley Boyd from a house slowly breaking up against a tree. Mrs. Boyd could be seen plainly in the gleam of searchlights across a 300 yard stretch of raging water, Crutcher said, but the torrent was so swift boats had not been able to reach her.

There was no indication of the whereabouts of Mrs. Boyd's husband and son, he said.

Crutcher said three-fourths of Morehead was under water and from four to eight feet of water stood in Railroad street, the town's principal thoroughfare.

Flood In Ohio

GRANVILLE, O., July 5—(AP)—A "Flash" flood, racing in on the heels of a near-cloudburst, struck three Licking county communities today.

Water ran several feet deep through streets here and flooded the first floors of stores. Sheriff's deputies used a boat to rescue two families from farm homes near Alexandria. Johnstown also was hit.

There were no reports of casualties.

Over Score In Missouri

By The Associated Press
Twenty-three persons died violent deaths in Missouri during the 4-day Fourth of July holiday period.

Motor cars again claimed the heaviest toll, while the once deadly fireworks celebrations brought only minor accidents.

Fatalities were grouped as follows:

Traffic accidents 11; drownings 8; falls 2; shootings 1; trains 1; heat exhaustion 1; hunting accidents 1.

This total compared with 21 deaths over the Fourth a year ago.

Dr. Lunsford Killed.

Among those who died in automobile accidents was Dr. William F. Lunsford, former vital statistician for the state board of health at Jefferson City, who later became health director at Kansas City, Kas. He died yesterday at Nevada of injuries suffered in a crackup near there the night before.

Others who died similar deaths were R. P. Gillespie, 55, Kansas City, hit by a truck; Mrs. Bernice Brainard, 35, Kansas City, passenger in an auto figuring in a three-car collision near Hannibal; Mrs. Mary Carothers, 46, jumped from auto near Parkville when she feared her husband would not be able to avoid an accident; Robert Holland, 22, Greentop, fell under truck driven by his father.

Sharp, 67, Springfield, hit-and-run victim; Robert Burton, 8, St. Louis, struck while crossing street; Kenneth Kaiser, 17, and Peggy Adair, 17, both of Clinton, pinned under auto that overturned on a curve; Mrs. A. Josephine Yasbec, 27, Pittsburg, Kas., was preparing to check out of a Kansas City hotel Tuesday night when she fell from a 17-story window. Donald Osborne, 2 years old, fell to his death from a window in St. Louis.

Osborne Bell, Sedalia Negro, was fatally shot during a quarrel; Lester Anderson, 53, was struck by a switch engine in the Kansas City railroad yards; Beverly Jean Oxford, 5, died of heat exhaustion at Joplin, and C. B. Luck, St. Louis, was shot accidentally while squirrel hunting.

Make Switch In Weather Code

ST. LOUIS, July 5—(AP)—The weather bureau has a new code and, all puns aside, it's causing headaches for Forecaster W. J. Moxom.

The forecast was delayed almost an hour this morning as Moxom and his staff struggled with the decoding of cryptic figures giving weather information from 200 observation points.

The switch from a letter code, which had been in use for years, was made July 4. Employees were so familiar with the old code they could read it at sight. With the new one, they have to resort to the code book to interpret figures.

This morning, for example, one of the reports was: 40866 16405 15675 67102 01795 7188. That was Philadelphia's report, giving such information as cloud conditions and formations, visibility, wind direction and force, air pressure, dew point, barometer tendency and change, maximum and minimum temperature.

Under the old code, much of this information was not given. It provided only about a dozen weather classifications as against 99 in the new system. The result will be more accurate weather forecasts, Moxom said.

For Missouri, the forecast was partly cloudy weather in the south portion and scattered thundershowers in the north portion tonight or tomorrow. It will be somewhat cooler in the north part of the state tomorrow.

Temperatures yesterday were topped by a reading of 100 degrees at Kansas City's airport. Maximums elsewhere in the state generally were 90 degrees or above.

off its contribution entirely.

Federal grants to match the state outlays under the Byrnes plan would range from 50 to 66 2/3 per cent of the total spent in each state. The percentage the federal government contributed would increase in proportion to the amount the average per capita income in a state fell below the national average.

Opponents contend the proposal would place an unfair burden on the wealthier states, and it would encourage poor states to relax their efforts to provide increased contributions.

Arthur J. Altmeyer, chairman of the federal grants on a basis of need and relative "economic capacity" of the states, but he has proposed no fixed formula for doing this.

acted in excess of his jurisdiction." The opinion said Caulfield's $10,000 additional compensation was not shown to "exceed the reasonable value of his services" and found "no basis" for Judge Sartorius' "speculative finding that it will tend to impair his independence."

In another case growing out of the same matter, the Supreme Court made permanent its order of last year prohibiting Judge Saratius from ruling on the status of a special committee named to handle the affairs of the investment corporation.

"It seems passing strange," wrote Judge Clark, "that if members of the committee are so unworthy 78 per cent and more of the beneficial owners desire to retain them and only a fraction

One Year To Go Presidential Possibilities

Henry A. Wallace

Secretary Wallace—an idealist who compromises with expediency.

BY BRUCE CATTON

NEA Washington Correspondent

HENRY AGARD WALLACE'S chances to become president of the United States depend on various things which are more or less out of his control. One of them is the state of agricultural prosperity, or otherwise; another is the state of mind of President Roosevelt.

For the first, Secretary Wallace will be held largely responsible. As director of the most spectacular and costly campaign ever undertaken to improve the farmer's lot, he must stand or fall on the cold-fact results of the drive.

Right now he is sort of betwixt and between: farm prices are better now than they were when he took office, but are not as good as either Mr. Wallace or the farmers want them to be.

As to the second factor—a die-hard New Dealer, Mr. Wallace could hardly dream of seeking his party's nomination if Mr. Roosevelt wanted it for himself. Until the third-term issue is definitely settled, the secretary's budding campaign will have a hard time coming to flower.

A sincere idealist, Mr. Wallace has had to make compromises with expediency. An apostle of plenty, he has had to reduce crop output. He has had to embrace export-subsidies, which he dislikes.

If he comes forward as a candidate, the 50-year-old secretary will come as a "favorite son" of Iowa. A complicating factor is that Secretary of Commerce Harry Hopkins is also setting up shop as an Iowan.

HIS ASSETS: Considerable influence in the farm belt; an informal, but effective "machine," set up under AAA; a pleasing personality; effective speech-making ability; a record of sound New Dealism.

HIS LIABILITIES: The opposition of certain farm groups; indifferent success of the current save-the-farmer campaign; city folks' feeling that he is pretty much a farm-problem man; accumulated resentments piled up by the various triple-A programs.

HIS CHANCES: Just fair, with the future unpredictable.

of one per cent are clamoring for their removal." The unanimous opinion held Judge Sartorius without jurisdiction over the committee.

the senate. The vote by which that chamber struck out the dollar devaluation powers last week before they were restored in a senate-house conference committee was 47 to 31.

The conference agreement not only continues the devaluation and stabilization powers, but fixes a statutory price of 71.11 cents an ounce for domestically-mined silver.

Some Change Anticipated
Silver senators who combined with Republicans to eliminate the devaluation authority and gain a higher silver price won a compromise on the latter in the conference report. Some of them were expected to change and line up for it late today. One of these was Senator Pittman (D-Nev.).

Offsetting Pittman's switch, however, was Senator George (D-Ga.) who voted for the devaluation, but who said he would cast his vote against the conference report because it eliminated the senate's ban against purchases of foreign silver. Moreover, he said he felt approval of the report would be of doubtful legality.

Administration forces, aided by an opinion from Attorney General Murphy, were contending the report would legally revive the president's powers even though they lapsed at midnight last Friday when Republicans, aided by Tydings (D-Md.), talked past the deadline and prevented a vote on their restoration.

There was some question whether the administration, if beaten, would carry on the fight again, try a further compromise, or offer a new resolution—which all agreed would pass without trouble—to continue only the stabilization fund.

Victory in the monetary and neutrality battles after temporary setbacks, administration leaders agreed, would go a long way toward balancing the present session scales in favor of the president, or at least would take away some of the sting of previous defeats.

They contended the chief executive got speedily all he asked for in his $552,000,000 defense program and got more money for relief than requested, though certain administrative restrictions which he opposed were enacted.

The president approved the farm appropriation reluctantly because it exceeded his budget, without taxes to raise the necessary additional expense.

Also in the revenue field, the president acquiesced in repeal of the last remnant of the undistributed profits tax, but won a higher flat corporation tax designed to keep receipts at approximately the existing level.

Bid Is Made For Tennis Tourney

An invitation has been extended the Missouri Junior Chamber of Commerce to have its annual tennis tournament in Sedalia July 22 and 23. The organization holds its state board meeting in the same city and at the same time the tournament is held.

The invitation was extended by Ellsworth Green, secretary of the Sedalia Chamber of Commerce, who is past president of the State Junior chamber and at present a national director.

Find Doctor Shot To Death In Bath Tub

CAMERON, Mo., July 5—(AP)—Dr. P. H. Stockfleth, 59, was found shot to death in the bath tub at his home. An automatic .32 revolver was near the body. County officials said there would be no inquest.

Protest New WPA Regulation

MILWAUKEE, July 5—(AP)—Approximately 800 WPA workers, employed on widening and deepening the Milwaukee River, dropped their tools and refused to work today as a protest against the new federal relief appropriation act which requires all WPA workers to put in 130 hours a month.

Sanford P. Starks, Milwaukee district WPA director, said about 800 other men were willing to work, but he ordered the project shut down until tomorrow, rather than risk violence.

WPA workers formerly put in 60 to 80 hours a month at the security wage scale of $60 a month for general labor, $70 for intermediate and $90 for skilled labor.

At Oshkosh, Wis., approximately 900 workers quit in protest against the new regulations.

ST. LOUIS, July 5—(AP)—Only 39 fireworks injuries were reported over the Fourth—first under the anti-fireworks ordinance—in this metropolitan area which formerly had the country's worst record for such injuries.

The ordinance banning explosives was passed less than a year ago after fireworks had injured an average of 453 persons annually for a decade. In 1938 the injury list mounted to 706.

British Would Readily Give Aid To Poland

Tension Appears Some Relieved As To Danzig Crisis

LONDON, July 5—(AP)—Richard Butler, undersecretary for foreign affairs, told the house of commons today Britain was obligated to resist aggression against Poland in the event that there was a "clear threat" to Poland's independence.

Asked if Britain's policy included resistance to any possible attempt to change the status of the free city of Danzig, Butler referred his questioner to the "terms of our pledge to Poland, which Great Britain will certainly fulfill."

(The British-French undertaking, as announced last March 31 by Prime Minister Chamberlain, is to lend "all support in their power" to Poland "in the event of any action which clearly threatened Polish independence and which the Polish government accordingly considered vital to resist with their national forces.")

Steps As Necessary

Chamberlain shortly before had declared: "His majesty's government will not fail to take any steps which may seem to them necessary and desirable to make their attitude absolutely clear."

"This has already been stated with precision in recent speeches by ministers."

Despite Chamberlain's statement some of his hearers recalled that neither he nor Foreign Secretary Lord Halifax had mentioned the Danzig situation specifically in any of their recent speeches nor been more specific concerning Britain's pledge to aid Poland of her independence were threatened.

Other definitions of the British stand have not been consistent. Saturday a foreign office spokesman declined to say that a Nazi putsch in Danzig "would necessarily" bring British guarantees into force. Sunday foreign office sources said Poland, Britain and France had agreed to resist any effort to change the status of the free city, either from within or without. This statement has not been endorsed by either Chamberlain or Halifax.

Details Declined

The prime minister declined to give details of what issues are obstructing Soviet Russia's participation in the British-French mutual assistance front but declared Moscow's reactions were being studied jointly by Britain and France.

Laborite F. S. Cocks pressed Butler for a more definite answer, asking whether he would "say at least whether, if Poland suffers an act of aggression, all our forces would be immediately put at her disposal?"

Butler replied that Cocks "will remember that the terms of the guarantee which we gave to Poland referred to a very clear threat to her independence."

Tension Seems Relaxed

WARSAW, July 5—(AP)—Polish circles expressed belief today that central European tension had been relaxed and attributed it to a diplomatic counter-attack by Britain, France and Poland that had impressed Germany.

The independent newspaper, Wiecez Warszawski called the new situation a "truce" and said it might last four weeks.

There still were some indications of nervousness, however. Hoarding by peasants was said to have drawn many silver coins from circulation, Polish forces remained mobilized and one newspaper warned that "until Hitler gives sincere proof of desire for peace, Europe must remain watchful and armed."

K C Police On The Anxious Seat

KANSAS CITY, July 5—(AP)—Kansas City policemen were asking themselves and each other today "where will the lightning strike?"

Members of the department, long a stronghold of Boss Tom Pendergast's Democratic political machine were waiting reports from Jefferson City where Gov. Lloyd C. Stark is expected to sign the Kansas City Police Bill this week.

Adding to the anxiety is the fact the governor has kept his own counsel about the personnel of the new police board. Several names have been mentioned in local discussion of possible appointments, but Governor Stark's policy of silence, has kept the police department employees on the "anxious seat" wondering whether they will be "in or out" after the governor acts.

Wheat Prices

Given A Boost

CHICAGO, July 5—(AP)—Firmness at Liverpool and buying attributed to mills today helped boost wheat prices as much as ¼c a bushel at times.

Movement of new crop wheat was liberal, totaling 6,696,000 bushels at 12 principal terminals during the past two days. Hedge offerings in connection with the movement, however, were well absorbed. The Liverpool market, due lower on the basis of action here Monday, closed ½c to ¾c higher.

Wheat futures here closed ¾c to ¾c higher, July 63½c to ¾c, September 70c; corn ¼c to ¾c, up 16½c to 16½c, September 48½c; oats ¾c to ¾c higher.

When the skin becomes seriously infected by germs of the streptococcus type, there is redness, swelling and pain with direct extension of the swelling. Finally the body as a whole reacts with fever. The condition is called erysipelas. This type of inflammation of the skin has been known for many centuries. It is seen throughout the entire world, most frequently, however, during the late spring and fall. Usually it attacks older people rather than young ones but there is no age exempt from this disease.

Most cases of erysipelas of the face are known to be started by scratching the nostrils and the nasal passages with the fingernail. Sometimes erysipelas begins around the ear due to the use of matches or toothpicks in this organ. Wherever erysipelas occurs, there is usually a history of breaking of the skin or rubbing, making a place in which the streptococcus can enter.

From 15 to 61 hours after the organism gets into the skin, the inflammation begins. Uncomplicated cases of erysipelas will last from 5 to 10 days. On the legs erysipelas lasts about 11 days and when it affects the whole body, the condition lasts about 15 days. Complicated cases may go on for long periods of time.

Usually erysipelas begins with a sharply defined area of redness either on the cheek, the nose or the forehead or at some junction between the skin and the mucous membranes. More than 90 per cent of all cases occur on the face. The skin becomes hot, swollen and glistening. As the redness spreads, the center becomes pale and less swollen. If the eyelids are attacked, they become enormously swollen so that the eyes are shut. Frequently if the condition spreads beyond the ear, it will reach the hair-line and then stop.

Because of the general infection there may be chills and illness with headache, dizziness and vomiting. Sometimes there is severe itching in connection with the swelling of the skin. Occasionally there is sore throat. The fever may go from 103 to 105 degrees Fahrenheit.

Gradually, as the patient improves, the temperature drops, the skin becomes white and then there is peeling of a flaky material. In certain instances erysipelas may be so severe as to produce death.

Heroic Statue Honors U. S. Pioneer Mother

AMERICAN history is filled with glowing accounts of the men who "won the west"—the pioneers whose courage and determination peopled the vast acres from the Mississippi to the Pacific. But not enough is said of the Pioneer Mother. She was there, too, at her husband's side, sharing his dangers, privations and hardships. Hers was the task of transforming a sod dugout or log cabin into a home, of bearing and raising her children alone, with none of the comforts or conveniences mothers have today.

It was to pay tribute to this great American woman that E. W. Marland, oil magnate and former governor of Oklahoma, conceived the idea in 1925, of building an heroic statue, to be erected in a state park near Ponca City, Okla. He commissioned 12 sculptors to submit models, arranged for exhibitions and left the decision on the statue to the people of the country.

Bryant Baker's statue was selected, reproduced in bronze 20 feet high. The statue was unveiled in 1930. It depicts the Pioneer Mother, her face to the west, striding forward. She is a typical frontier woman, erect, resolute, her clear eyes looking out from under a sunbonnet. At her side is her young son.

The Pioneer Mother statue at Ponca City is reproduced on the Mexican airmail stamp, above, green, commemorating the World Philatelic convention at Tulsa, Okla.

Child Becomes Confused By Too Many Things To Do

By Olive Roberts Barton

Miss Lecky was more than a writing teacher. She was a philosopher. She sprinkled among her professional admonitions small drops of gentle wisdom. The lines we wrote in our copybooks usually contained her priceless rules for living. On the board she would write, "One thing at a time and that done well," for instance. And we would contort our faces, stick our tongues out and write it, too. Now, after all these years, I am sure the boys and girls who accepted her most casually, in the manner of children, can trace much of their homely principles to her.

The little folk have left, after two weeks at our house. They are such lovely children, and as sweet as they come. But I find an indirection in the youngsters of today.

The world is opening suddenly like a large and luscious rose to the sun. Everything is amazing and exciting. But they cannot make up their minds what they want to play.

They are little and that is natural with tiny people who cannot make up their minds or concentrate too long. But I find myself wondering just what is ahead.

Won't life continue to offer too much all at once? Won't they be forever wondering just what section to make?

One Toy At A Time
At the New York World's Fair the National Association of Day Nurseries has a place to park children. They purposely select one or two toys for each youngster to play with at a time. How wise! They know that the child confronted with too much is at a loss.

Let us carry it into the home life of our children. One thing at a time. There lies mental content and simplicity. Children do better without too many decisions to make all at once.
